

Skull Fractured In Family Scrap

Geo. Haass of Frankfort Dies Suddenly In Wis.

Residents of Frankfort were shocked Tuesday morning upon hearing of the death of Geo. Haass, 76, former village president. Apparently in good health, he left Saturday for a fishing trip to Eagle River, Wis. accompanied by Mrs. Haass, his sister-in-law Mrs. Anna Pfaff and nephew Chester Pfaff.

He suffered a heart attack last Tuesday night from which he never recovered. The body was shipped to Frankfort arriving here Thursday morning.

Funeral services will be Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home with the Rev. Eric Bizer, pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical church officiating. Burial will be in the family mausoleum at Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Haass was well known here as a businessman. In earlier years he was the proprietor of a carbershop and until recently was associated with Herschbach Hardware store. He also served as village president from 1930 to 1934. A few years ago the Haass' celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Born in Mendota, Ill. the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Emil Haass, he came to Frankfort with the family and spent his entire life here. He is survived by his wife Irene Knater Haass and several nieces and nephews.

FRANKFORT PEOPLE ATTEND YOUTH DAY PROGRAM

Frankfort members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship attending the Youth Day program of the Rock River Conference held in Chicago Sunday were: Mrs. Mina Malek, Wilma Mark, Betty Mark, Harriet Baade, Loretta Reimers, Henry Heisner, Norman Heisner, and Dick Lambrecht. The group presented a demonstration for the World Friendship department and attended study groups in Commissions. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Radcliffe of Oak Park.

MISS DOROTHY DEVALK PRETTY JUNE BRIDE

The Trinity Lutheran church of Tinley Park was the scene of a pretty wedding last Saturday evening at 7:30 when Miss Dorothy DeValk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon DeValk of Tinley Park became the bride of Mr. Norman Bettenhausen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bettenhausen also of Tinley Park. The pastor of the church Rev. Mr. O. Woelzlein officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore the traditional white satin, with a veil and flowers and was escorted to the altar by her father.

The groom's sisters served the bride as maid of honor and bridesmaid, Lorraine, being clad in a blue gown and Dorothy in pink. Each carried red roses. Sam DeValk, brother of the bride and Albert Bornet served the groom.

The Misses June Koehler and Valery Albers sang during the ceremony. After the service the wedding party and friends went to the Broadway Gardens where a reception was held. Dancing and refreshments were enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Bettenhausen have gone to housekeeping on the farm of the groom's grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Bornet, where the groom has always lived.

Many lovely gifts were received by the honored couple.

ST. PETER'S EVAN. CHURCH TO PRESENT CHILDREN'S PROGRAM

Sunday, June 25, the Sunday School of St. Peter's Evangelical church will present a Children's Day program at 10:30 a.m. The regular Sunday School hour will precede this service. A noon pot-luck dinner will be served in the church parlors, to which every family is asked to furnish its own dishes and sandwiches. Coffee will be furnished by the Sunday School. The afternoon will be spent on the church grounds with games and contests. Soft drinks and ice cream will be sold there.

SAUK TRAIL CHURCH SCENE OF PRETTY JUNE WEDDING

Miss Gladys Seemann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Seeman, Frankfort became the bride of Orville Schinkowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schinkowski, at a pretty wedding solemnized Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock at the Evangelical Lutheran church, Sauk Trail and Cicero Ave. The Rev. E. Hieber, pastor of the church officiated at the double ring ceremony. The altar was decorated with mixed white flowers and red garden roses.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attractive in a gown of white bridal satin fashioned with a long train and fitted sleeves which tapered over the wrists. The bodice was cut with a sweetheart neckline and closed in back with tiny buttons. Her long net veil, edged in Chantilly lace was held in place with a tiara of seed pearls. She wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations. Miss Marion Hossbach, in blue marquisette, was the maid of honor and Miss June Dettmering of Matteson, in yellow marquisette, was bridesmaid. Their gowns were identical in style and were trimmed with ruffles of the same material. Matching their costumes were their tiny hats and shoulder length veils. They carried colonial bouquets of peach colored gladioli and blue sweet peas. Corinne Blume was the flower girl. Her floor length frock was of pale green marquisette and she carried a basket of roses.

Glenn Warning was best man and Earl Schinkowski of Palatine was the other attendant. Ushers were Carl Heiber of Matteson and Harold Werner of Monee. Arthur Lambrecht sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer", accompanied by E. G. Klomp, church organist who also played the processional, "Pomp and Circumstance" and the recessional, Mendelsohn's Wedding March.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Frankfort Village Hall for about 75 relatives and friends.

ST. JOHN'S, MOKENA TO HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC SUNDAY

The annual picnic of St. John's Evangelical church in Mokena will be held on next Sunday, starting with a fellowship basket lunch at noon around the tables in the comfort-cool of the church basement.

Three ball games are scheduled: Girls' game at 2:30, the married against the single men at 3:00 and the juvenile game at 6:30. There will be a horseshoe tournament for men, contests for all ages, volleyball and other games.

SPECIAL MEETING

The Mokena Village Board will meet Tuesday evening to appoint a village water pumper and village treasurer.

Killed in Crash

Mokena friends and relatives were deeply pained yesterday afternoon when they heard the news of the death of Cadet Carl Richard Hirsch who was killed Wednesday morning June 21 at nine o'clock in an airplane crash accident at his training center at Waco, Tex.

Details are lacking yet, and it is not known at the time of going to press when the body will arrive in Joliet for burial.

Cadet Hirsch, better known to his friends as Dickie was born in Mokena January 30, 1923, the son of Mr. Carl Hirsch now of Chicago Heights and Mrs. Lucille McCabe of Joliet. He was graduated from the Joliet township high school in 1940 and attended Junior college for one semester. He enlisted in the service of the Armed Forces in 1942 and was graduated from the pre-flight navy school for pilots at St. Mary, Cal. in the fall of 1943. He transferred to the Army air corp in 1943 and needed but 10 flying hours to receive his wings.

Beside his parents he is survived by one brother Cadet James Hirsch; stationed at Victoria, Kansas, one sister Carol Ann of Chicago Heights; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Boyd of Joliet and Mrs. Anna Hirsch of Tinley Park, and many other near relatives.

Denies Motion To Dismiss Suit On $8,000 Note

Judge James V. Bartley of the Will County circuit court overruled a motion Wednesday morning to dismiss a law suit involving the collection of an $8,000 note held by the trustees of the estate of the late Wm. H. Beechstein of Mokena.

According to the brief filed Jan. 28, 1942, Beechstein loaned $8,000 to Frank and Frieda Knudson on Feb. 1, 1918, to be repaid with six per cent interest within a five year period. The note was guaranteed by Frank Liess and Fred Knudson.

Beechstein, president of the Mokena State Bank, died in 1929, and Everett J. Cooper and Rose Oswald Beechstein were appointed trustees of the estate by the circuit court.

The trustees indicate that interest in the note was paid annually until Feb. 1, 1932.

Counsel for the defense made a motion for dismissal on the grounds that the makers of the note and the guarantors are improperly joined in one suit and that the complaint should contain information as to whether or not any legal steps were taken, or whether or not any money was realized from the makers of the trust deed securing the note.

Judge Bartley ruled that under provisions of the practice act the makers and guarantors of a note can be sued in one action, and that "a complaint is not required to anticipate the defense of a defendant."

The law firm of Savage, Holbrook and McKeown represent the Beechstein estate, while Irving Shutt is counsel for the defendants.

NEW LENOX GIVES LOCKER PLANT IDEA HEARTY SUPPORT

At the meeting held at New Lenox June 15, plans for a Locker plant were received and approved by nearly a hundred residents and farmers. Most of those attending signed up for a locker, and will deposit the first years rent with the New Lenox State Bank to be held in escrow until the plant is completed.

Anyone wanting a locker in the proposed plant is asked to see Mr. Krog of the above mentioned bank.

Tinley Home Coming Opens To-Night

Tonight marks the opening of the much heralded Tinley Park Home Coming at the Saenger Hall grove and hall with 14 home town organizations participating in the event. There will be a big variety of co-cessions, games, aerial shows, rides, Ferris wheel, outdoor bowling, and a host of the other attractions. There will be plenty of eats and refreshments. Methodist Ministers Are Transferred

The Methodist Church conference which ended in Chicago Wednesday night resulted in some new assignments. Rev. Rudolf Malek who has been serving the Frankfort and Green Garden Methodist churches for the past five years has been assigned to the Chandler Methodist church in Chicago, and will preach his first sermon there this Sunday. He will move next week.

Rev. R. J. L. McKelvey who has been pastor of the Tinley Park and Mokena Methodist charges has been assigned to Prairie Center and Earlville while Rev. J. Frank Anderson will take his place at Tinley and Mokena.

Defeat Road Tax Increase In Frankfort Twp.

A proposal to levy additional taxes for road purposes was defeated in Frankfort township Tuesday by a decisive vote. Two hundred and ten votes opposing the proposition were cast while 120 voters approved the proposal.

An interesting feature of the election was the fact that the two polling places set up for the voting differed on the results. At the Frankfort city hall the vote was 135 opposing and 20 favoring, while the Mokena polling booth tabulated 75 opposing and 100 favoring the proposition.

The election was held in accord with a petition asking for the referendum which was signed by a group of voters and presented to the township officials.

The increased revenue was sought for resurfacing roads in Frankfort Township.

TO HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR LINCOLN ESTATES SOLDIER

Memorial services in honor of the late 2nd Lieut. John Russell Hendrickson of Lincoln Estates will be held at the flag pole in Lincoln Estates Sunday July 2 at 2:00 pm. under the auspices of the Lincoln Estates branch of the American Red Cross. The public is cordially invited to attend and to participate in the paying of homages to one of the sons of this territory who gave his life for a cause which he thought worthy.

Mr. Clarence Neidringhaus, will be Master of Ceremonies the children of Ann Rutledge and Gatters school will sing; Rev. Rudolf Malek, former pastor of the Frankfort Methodist church will be the speaker of the afternoon and also the Rev. Mr. LaBue, pastor of the Lincoln Estates Baptist church.

Lt. Hendrickson was born in Chicago Aug. 21, 1919 and came with his parents to Lincoln Estates in 1931. About four years ago his mother passed away. He entered the service of this country in 1941 and in January 1944 he went across to England. According to the message received from the War Department, he was killed in action while on duty over France in April, he being a bombardier.

Beside his father, Lt. Hendrickson is survived by a brother and sister in Chicago.

Geo. L. Reiter Commissioned as 2nd Lieutenant

Geo. L. Reiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Reiter, New Lenox, recently was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Army of the United States and has been assigned to duty as a weather officer at an AAF station.

George L. Reiter

He received his commission at Chanute Field following completion of a course in advanced weather observing and forecasting in addition to training in duties and responsibilities of commissioned officers.

Must Pay Taxes At Court House

A county wide appeal to property owners to pay their personal and real estate taxes at the county collector's office in the court house, was made today by Ivan R. Rhodes, county treasurer and ex-officio county collector.

Mr. Rhodes stated that township tax collectors were unable to carry out collections in their respective townships, thru no fault of their own and thru no fault of his, and that tax payments had to be made at the court house.

When a tax suit was started in Sangamon county over the valuations of all railroads for the year 1943, the state tax commission was delayed in fixing values, and as a consequence the tax extension of 1943 taxes was so delayed that it was impossible for the County Clerk to deliver the tax books for collection until after June 13th which made it necessary that the books be delivered to the county collector. The town collector cannot officiate after June first under the law.

All tax bills, personal and real estate, are being mailed from the county collector's office. Tax payers are asked to mail their remittance, together with their tax bill, direct to the county collector.

Mr. Rhodes urged prompt payment of taxes now so as to make tax money available to the various taxing bodies in the county. He stated that penalties on the first installment on real estate and all personal taxes will become effective August first.

He said that he appreciated the cooperation he had obtained from various township tax collectors and township officials thruout the county and most especially the cooperation of the Will County Board of Supervisors in their endeavor to make it possible to permit all of the town collectors to officiate for a thirty-day period. Everything was done by him and the Board of Supervisors that could be done in the matter but the statutes, being most specific in this instance, made it impossible to deviate therefrom.

MOTOR VEHICLE TAX STAMPS DUE

The new July issue $5 Motor Vehicle Tax Stamps are on sale at all postoffices thru out the country. This tax is collectable on all motor vehicles, including passenger cars, trucks and motor cycles that are used on the highways. The law provides for the collection of the tax by July 1.

After July 31 applicants who desire to purchase monthly issue in lieu of the $5 stamp will be able to obtain same at the nearest Collector of Internal Revenue.

The Tinley Park post office will be elevated from third to second class July 1st. This change in Saturday office hours complies generally with hours maintained at other second class offices in which employee's hours are regulated by federal law.

There is no mail received Saturday afternoon.

Belligerent Brothers Placed Under Cash Bonds

A family row which broke out in the Luther Scott home in Mokena Friday night was climaxed by Scott suffering a fractured skull and being severely beaten and choked.

According to the report of the Will County Sheriff's office, deputies Doerfler, Nelson, Maier and White had been dispatched to Mokena to pick up Virgil Scott who was arrested on a complaint signed by his wife, Louis Stanger aged 32 of Mokena and his brother Wm. aged 34 of Chicago were on the Scott premises when the deputies took Virgil into custody. The deputies ordered the Stangers brothers of Mrs. Virgil Scott to get off the Scott property and go home.

The sheriff's report further states that the Stanger's were getting in their cars as the deputies were leaving.

Later investigation revealed that a few minutes after the deputies had left, an argument started about an automobile. Mrs. Virgil Scott demanded that she be given her husband's car, but the deputies refused to do this, saying she would have to get permission from the State's Attorney to take the car.

As a result of this argument the elder Scott became involved and a regular knock-down and drag-out fracas resulted. Scott charges that one of the Stanger brothers struck him, knocking him down choking him and administering a severe beating. On the other hand Louis Stanger claimed Scott struck first.

A neighbor who witnessed Dr. E. G. MacMahon was the one to come to the aid of Mr. Scott. called and gave first aid treatment and discovered Scott had suffered a skull fracture. He was taken to the Silver Cross hospital Saturday morning.

After the fight the sheriff's report states the Stangers towed the car away in defiance of the deputies orders that the car was not to be moved pending permission from the State's Attorney.

Mrs. Virgil Scott and Mrs. Luther Scott were instructed Saturday morning to appear at the State's Attorney's office Monday morning.

The Stanger Brothers were released from the county jail Wednesday on a cash bail bond.

In addition, a divorce suit has been filed in the circuit court by Elaine Scott against Virgil Scott. The couple was married at Joliet Sept. 6, 1942. Extreme and repeated cruelty is being charged. She asks the custody of their one child.

Luther Scott aged 52, is a veteran of World War 1.

At the time of going to press last night, Dr. E. G. MacMahon of Mokena stated that Mr. Scott was in a very grave condition, being completely paralyzed.

Robert Schlacks Is Re-elected Head of Mokena Civic Assoc.

The Mokena Civic Association at their meeting Tuesday night elected the following officers:

Robert J. Schlacks, president. Fred Hentsch, vice-president. Fred Rauch, secretary.

Fred Steinhagen, treasurer.

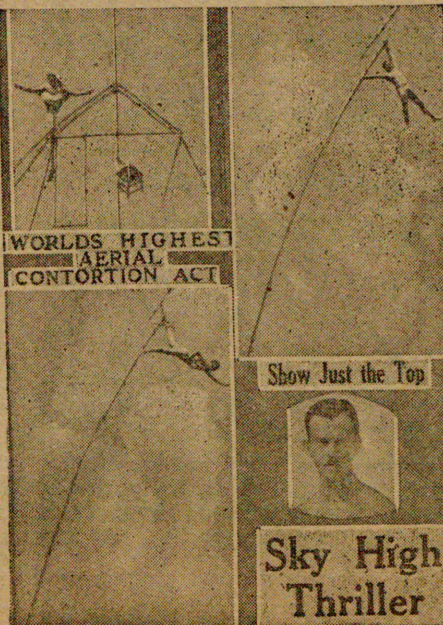

The Association will recess during the summer months and will not meet until September.

MOKENA COUPLE HAVE CYCLONE CELLAR EXPERIENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lowe and daughter Ruth of Mokena spent several days last week with the former's brothers at Emmington, Kempton and Donovan, Illinois.

While they were at Donovan which is near the Indiana line, a twisting storm came up very suddenly. All the lights went out and Mr. Lowe's brother called to every one to go into the dugout which they did. There were 12 persons of whom three were children under 3 years of age. They were without lights. Fortunately Mr. Lowe carries a box of matches and these he lit and also a small piece of paper which afforded illumination, but the smoke was too much for the baby. The lights had to be put out for about 20 minutes.

After ascending from the dugout the results of the storm showed one large tree fell just missing the trap door of the dugout. Porches and roofs were damaged on near by farms, cribs were blown over and other damage done.

UNPROMOTED COMBAT FLIERS

One thing that grips the boys at the front is the way a lot of the desk officers in the war department and others here at home seem to get promotions more rapidly than the boys who are up on the firing line. Some of them feel so badly about it that they aren't anxious to come home, though given opportunities of furlough, because they are out-ranked by their old friends at home.

For instance, most of the new pilots just arriving in England are second lieutenants. They haven't been on any missions at all. Meanwhile, men who have been in England for two years, and have been flying over Europe constantly, still remain second lieutenants.

"How many do you have?" asks some newly arrived pilot who has flown twice across the channel, each flight being a mission.

TIRE-RATION PROBE

The Office of Price Administration is quietly probing several cases of tire ration violations which promise to be sensational. They go right into some of the biggest tire companies of the country.

One of the big tire companies is being probed on a charge of having failed to void the tire ration certificates turned in to them by retailers. In other words, when a retail tire store or garage sells a tire, it has to send back to the tire manufacturer the certificate issued by the OPA ration board. However, the OPA is tracking down reports that these tire certificates, instead of being stamped as used, are going back to the dealers, or else remaining with them in the first place. Thus, they are able to sell more tires without requiring more certificates in exchange.

Another big company is being investigated by the OPA for buying up new tires of various makes from dealers and later reselling them through the company's own stores at considerable loss. Even though not the tires made by this company, the loss was considered a good investment because it got motorists into the habit of trading with this company's retail stores.

There may be some startling news breaking on this soon.

GERMANY'S SMART CHOICES

U. S. experts who have studied the Nazi military setup to resist invasion figure that Hitler—or whoever did the picking for him—was smart in his selection of German military leaders. Three of the best men in the German army have been given the job of combating what the Nazis know is the death thrust at Germany.

No. 1 is Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt, considered the best strategist and over-all commander in Germany. Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, immediately under him, is the best man for lightning moves and panzer tactics.

Finally, Colonel General Heinz Guderian is considered the best tank commander in the German army.

U. S. experts, who believe in looking facts in the face, classify these three as among the top military brains of Europe.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TO END?

It looks as if daylight-saving time were going to be abolished without giving the President a chance to block the repeal.

Several resolutions have been introduced to abolish war time, as a result of protests from farmers in agricultural areas. These are now before Representative Clarence Lea of California and his Interstate Commerce committee, and it looks as if one of them would be reported out and passed.

If so, it cannot be vetoed by the President, for the original bill establishing war time provided that it was to end six months after the war, or upon a concurrent resolution by both houses of congress.

This latter provision precludes a veto, since resolutions are not subject to being overruled by the White House. In fact, Congressman Lea wrote his original daylight-saving bill in this form for the specific purpose of heading off the White House in case Congress wanted to abolish war time.

☛ Congratulations to Lieut. Harry B. Paul Barnhart for bringing laughs to the boys in the South Pacific with his army show "Stars and Gripes."

Every day the state department condenses foreign news developments for its officials both at home and abroad. It is one of the fairest news summaries in Washington.

☛ The navy is starting a school of government, similar to the army's at Charlottesville, Va., to train men to govern occupied territories. Some navy men are wisecracking that they don't need to train governors of occupation because the British take over all Pacific possessions as soon as we capture them. (The Solomons and New Guinea were largely British before the war.)

First Major Battle in Caen Region

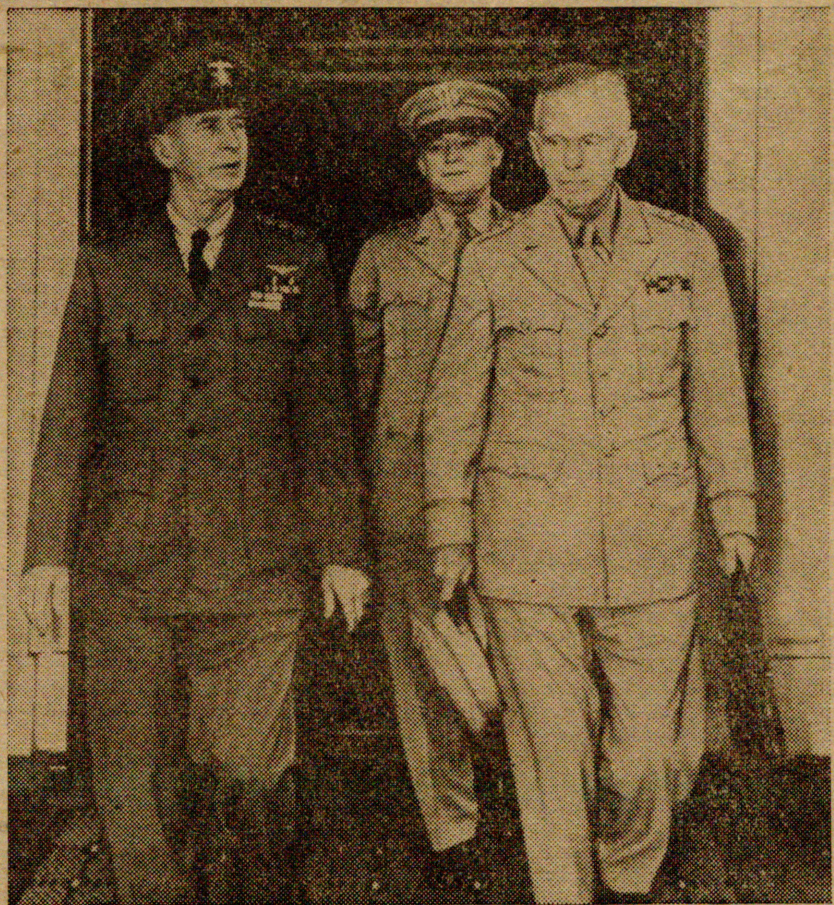

The Caen region of Normandy invasion coast became the reported scene of the first battle of major proportions, with worst fighting just outside of Bayeux, north of Caen. After amphibious forces converged on St. Vaast, on Cherbourg peninsula, troops began straddling the road to Carentan (1) where paratroopers landed. Landing made at Arromanches, midway between Le Havre and Cherbourg, moved toward Bayeux.

Improved Milking Method Saves Labor

Massaging Udder Stimulates Flow

Because of the labor shortage on dairy farms, many dairymen are looking to a new, faster method of milking. An improved system is described by Dr. George E. Taylor, extension dairyman at Rutgers U. The important steps, he says, are these:

1. Start milking at approximately the same time night and morning.
2. Have all equipment in readiness for use before starting to milk.
3. Properly prepare each cow just prior to milking by washing and massaging the udder with chlorinated water heated to 110 to 120 degrees Fahrenheit.

4. Remove a few streams of milk from each quarter into a strip cup just before putting the machine on each cow.

5. Examine and massage each quarter just before milking is completed, pulling downward on the teat cups at the same time.

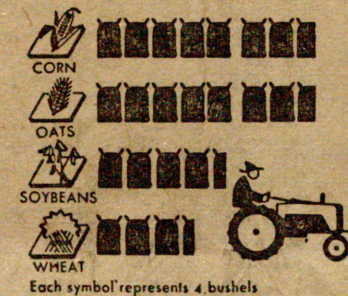

"Preparing each cow properly for milking makes for cleaner milk and a more pliable udder and stimulates the cow to give down her milk more promptly," Dr. Taylor says. Drawing a few streams of milk into the strip cup is equally stimulating to let-down of milk. It discards a little milk that is low in fat and high in bacteria and detects gargety milk at its source. Many dairymen find that hand stripping is no longer necessary.

"Young cows and first calf heifers respond and adjust themselves more readily to the improved milking method than older cows. Even older animals will become accustomed to faster milking, but it may require a little more time and careful handling."

Patch of Culinary Herbs

Helps Fill Spice Needs

If you are planting culinary herbs for the first time, start with a few varieties. Select such old-time favorites as dill, sage, parsley, sweet marjoram, chives, and caraway that can pinch-hit for some of the seasoners now cut off because of shipping conditions.

Plant only what you can use to good advantage. Garden space is at a premium this year and seeds—even of herbs—are none too plentiful. Flavors and odors of most culinary herbs are highly concentrated, and only a very small amount is needed to season a quantity of food. Overplanting means a waste of time and energy as well as a waste of soil and seed.

Most herbs will do well on any rich, well-drained garden soil. All annual herbs and most of the biennials and perennials are grown from seed, but the mints, pennyroyal, tarragon and chives are propagated by cuttings or by division.

Homemade Egg Cases

To convert a citrus fruit box to an egg case, nail a 7/8-inch strip of board to the end boards and the divider, to make the box deep enough to hold the standard 30 dozen eggs. A 7/8-inch strip along each side also helps to make the box safe to use. Homemade boxes of half-inch lumber will last for years, if the farmer collects the empty ones each time he delivers eggs locally.

Million Farm Boys in Service

About one million farm workers have been inducted into the armed forces since 1940 when the selective service law became effective, according to War Food administration figures. During the past year approximately 250,000 were inducted from agriculture. In addition to the loss of these men, many others have left farms for various reasons and several million have withdrawn from agriculture without changing their residence.

Long-Haired Sikh Soldiers Unable to Wear Helmets

The only soldiers today who are unable to wear helmets are the 100,000 enlisted Sikhs of India, many of whom are fighting with the British army in Italy.

Because a religious custom forbids them to cut their hair, they wear it in a large oiled topknot, protected from dust by a huge turban containing from 12 to 16 square yards of material.

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood. You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of a Flying Fortress, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Eight of his men were killed while fleeing for shelter, and Old 99, with many other Forts, was demolished on the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of their squadron flies to Java, where they go on many missions over the Philippines and the Java sea. Java is invaded and becomes untenable. The Dutch general grants permission for U. S. fliers to evacuate to Australia. If they will first strafe Jap landing barges, which is done. They leave for Australia in an overcrowded Fortress, reach Broome airfield, circle, and come in.

CHAPTER XX

"Presently the old sheep-rancher who took care of this shack and also ran the general store strolled over, and we began to talk.

"Had any trouble around here?" I asked him.

"No," he said. "Jap planes come over once in a while. Over here, sometimes over Wyndham and Port Hedland too, they say."

"What do you mean, once in a while?"

"The last one was just last night, since you mention it," he said. "Came over very high, early in the morning."

"So at breakfast I mentioned it to the officer in charge of the field (a new man, just out from the States). 'Did you know, sir, the Japs had a recon plane over last night?' And went on to say that we had quite a bit of stuff here, and while of course the crews were terribly tired, maybe it should be moved out."

"He listened, and because I was on edge, his hesitation somehow annoyed me. But he finally said maybe I had a point there. And thinking about it, he finished his breakfast. I was glad when we got out of there after breakfast for Melbourne."

"We worked most of the night on the brakes, and then went to sleep in that hangar shack. I slept fitfully—woke at five, to get an early start. It didn't seem healthy to me or to any of the rest of us. After a makeshift mess—hot beans and coffee plus field rations—we went out to the ship at six and stood by."

"Skiles had asked the officer in charge when he could take off. But he gave Skiles to understand we were evacuees just like the others. When we were given our passenger list, we could go."

"So we stood around the plane from six o'clock until 9:10, waiting for that list and those orders. At this minute Sergeant Britt happened to look up and hollered: 'Make a run for it, fellows—here come some Zeros!' Five of us who were standing back of the plane dropped into a hole about fifty feet away."

"One Zero peeled off and strafed the Fortress with incendiaries. It caught fire immediately, then the Zero went on down and strafed a B-24, setting it afire. Then it turned and, coming in directly over our hole from the rear, strafed them again. It repeated this six times, also firing a 20-millimeter cannon at us, which caved in our hole and covered us with dirt."

"When Sergeant Britt first hollered out, a big B-24 loaded with twenty-six people had just cleared the runway. When the Zeros hit, it was out over the ocean headed for Perth. It had hardly had time to pull its wheels up—and there was no room in there for them to swing a gun in their own defense—when a Zero caught up with it and dropped it in the sea."

"Two sergeants managed to get out. They swam for thirty-two hours, one of them giving up in sight of shore. The other told us what it had been like inside there when those bullets came smashing through that packed crowd, and a few seconds later when those dying and wounded were all struggling not to drown as the water came in."

"That day the Japs got another B-24 on the ground (it had been the one General Brett himself used), three Forts, a DC-2 and a DC-3, a Lockheed—but the worst were the nine Dutch flying boats they caught out in the harbor. About forty or fifty people were killed on them, mostly women and children."

"I saw one Dutchman swim ashore dragging his wife by the hair. The whole lower half of her face had been blown away and she was dead. I saw another woman standing on the wing of one of the planes which was burning. She had a child in her arms, and was ready to jump and swim ashore, when a cannon shot hit her in the back and broke her into halves. They both fell forward into the water, but the arms on the top half which held the child never let go of it."

"The men who were left were almost crazy with rage. One Zero was shot down by a Dutchman who stood in front of the hangar holding a .30-caliber machine gun across his arm. The gun got so hot it scorched right into his flesh, but he never noticed it. It turned out that Broome's anti-aircraft defense consisted of just this one .30-caliber gun. The Japs did the whole job in thirty minutes—didn't leave a thing."

"Finally the officer in charge told us: 'We expect planes in between now and midnight, but we don't know how many. We're compiling a priority list, but if your name isn't called by two o'clock, I advise you to get out of here quick, and the best way you can, even if you have to walk—and it's a long walk.'

"He turned out to be right. I fooled around until 2:30 and then, when my name hadn't been called, nine of us decided we'd string along with a civilian contractor who'd offered us a lift. He had thirty men and five Ford trucks, and said he was headed south down the coast for the nearest town, called Port Hedland, two hundred miles away. The Army had some emergency rations hidden in the woods, so we helped ourselves to enough of those to keep us on the trip."

"Then I began to find out about Australia. Those guys are like our Westerners—pioneer types, except bigger. When we got twenty miles out of Broome the road ended entirely. After that—nothing at all. We had to push those trucks through sand, and make long detours around salt-water marshes. Even our drinking water had to be carried in the trucks. They talked about passing three ranches. We did, and I discovered they were the only three houses between Broome and Port Hedland. A million acres is nothing to an Australian. The country looks like West Texas, and is covered thinly with what they call gum trees. They're like eucalyptus in the States. The only sign of life was kangaroos—we'd see half a dozen a day. The little ones are called wallabies and the others are big blues. They hunch low and run through the scrubby gum trees. I got tired living out of cans, so I borrowed a gun and shot a big blue, and the Aussies showed me how to eat it. You throw away all but the tail, which you make soup of, and it tastes like thick chicken broth."

"Finally I got to Melbourne, where the Air Force was gathering again—and found they had me down as a deserter, but it wasn't any trouble getting that explained."

"I got out of Java by boat," said the Gunner. "They loaded us on a train at Jockstrap and took us to some town whose name I never did learn, where a Dutch freighter was waiting to take out fifteen hundred of us. They told us we were bound for Perth, a town in Southwest Australia—about the same location and size as San Diego in the States. Alongside us at the dock was a troopship of Aussies from Singapore. Before that they'd been in Egypt—hadn't been home for years. Their boat was bound for Adelaide, way round on the other side of Australia—same location as Miami. But lots of them lived in Perth. When they heard we were going there, they all skipped ship to come aboard with us. We divided our food and lent them our mess kits. They'd lost everything at Singapore. They probably caught hell for it, but they didn't give a damn."

"The first day out we sighted a Jap plane, but it stayed up for a while, watching us. We had stuck machine guns in the belaying-pin holes, and kept the soldiers hidden below decks so they wouldn't know we were carrying troops. Our gunners were hidden, too. But when this Jap started down to strafe, one of our gunners gave the show away by opening fire too soon—otherwise we would have got him."

"We zigzagged for five days, and then at Perth were loaded into a troop train for Melbourne. I was in the coach next the engine, and the Australians couldn't do too much for us. The engineer drew a can of hot water from his boiler and made us some tea out of his strictly rationed supply, apologizing because it wasn't stronger."

"I guess I was about the last one of us to arrive."

"Not by a couple of weeks you weren't," said Frank with a grin. "We thought you were dead. Way back in the Philippines, when Jack Adams' plane didn't come back to Del Monte Field from that mission. We had given you up months ago. What had you been doing, anyway?"

"Trying to get out of the damned Philippines," said Harry. "And I didn't manage it until the day before General MacArthur did—the sixteenth of March I think it was."

"Harry was the last man to come," said Frank, "and now that the gang was together we could start doing business. You see Lieutenant General Brett, who had been commanding the United Nations Air Force under British General Wavell, who was supreme commander, needed a plane to take him around the war zone. His B-24 had been lost at Broome, remember. Colonel Eubank recommended me to General Brett as his personal pilot and senior air aide, and I selected the crew. Of course when it came to picking the plane itself, the General ordered a D, because all the E's with tail guns were needed for combat and he wanted those planes saved for the boys who would be going out on missions."

"But when it came to which D we would pick, it had to be the Swoose, because there was no other left. Every plane, even of the same model, handles a little differently. I'd flown our D's out from the States, through the Philippines and Java, and I've always felt the old Swoose was just a few miles faster and answered the controls a little more smoothly than the others."

"So now, as pilot and crew of the commanding Air Force General's plane, we in the Swoose were making weekly trips into the war zone from Headquarters far down in Melbourne, up to Darwin and Port Moresby, which were then far-flung outposts on the battle line. The General would average sixty hours a month in the air—thirty of them at least in this combat zone. To get him in and out of it, the Swoose often hit 150 air hours per month."

"At Moresby it was never safe to leave the Swoose on the ground by day. We'd sneak in at night, leave the General, and be off back to Townsville by dawn, coming in to pick him up again the next night. Sometimes the General would just have time to scramble aboard while we cleared the field as the alarm sounded. He was bound he wouldn't lose the Swoose."

"We now began to get a peek out over the top at the broad picture of this Far Eastern war. There were differences over strategy, but it was never Australians versus Americans. The cleavage was ground-minded versus air-minded thinking. The Australian air generals saw eye to eye with our American air leaders. Likewise the infantry generals of both armies thought alike."

"And there was much to the infantry side of the argument. After Java fell, Australian civilians were panicky. Thousands of Australian boys had gone out to die in Africa and Singapore. Now the danger had suddenly rolled down on the Home-lands."

"Not in New Guinea, or Tulagi, or Guadalcanal, or even in Darwin, which, although on their own continent, is to the average Australian as remote as the Aleutians seem to New Yorkers. They think of Darwin as a tiny outpost separated from them by thousands of miles of impassable desert. They wanted the soldiers near the great cities of Sydney and Melbourne, where they could hear the marching and the military bands."

"This was also sound infantry strategy. The only populous parts of Australia are down in this southeast corner. We didn't yet have many battalions, supply problems were enormous, so our infantry generals agreed with theirs and with their civil leaders. They wanted to keep the army near valuable objectives, not scatter it out across seas and jungle islands, where supply problems would become formidable."

"But we of the Air Forces (both Australian and American) felt that to defend this continent we must build our fighter fields not in Australia itself, but on the outlying islands. Having these, with a few ground troops to hold our airdromes against Jap landing parties, no fleet would dare venture through our air screen to threaten the continent itself."

"We'd defended Java by pounding the Japs from Borneo. The Japs had not dared send their transports and landing barges through until they'd taken our advance bases and held air control over the Java Sea."

"The Australian Air Force was as anxious to move into this outlying island chain as we were. Early in April they'd wanted to seize Lae in New Guinea, before the Japs had had time to dig in on its north coast. At that time the Japs had only about four hundred men in the area, and it would have been easy."

"But we lacked the men and the ships—the Japs pressed on and presently took Tulagi in the Solomons, threatening our supply lines home."

THE POWER IN SIMPLE LIVING

LESSON TEXT—Daniel 1:8-16, 19, 20.
GOLDEN TEXT—But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's dainties, nor with the wine which he drank.—Daniel 1:8.

"Dare to be a Daniel,
Dare to stand alone
Dare to have a purpose firm,
Dare to make it known."

Remember how we used to sing it in our Sunday Schools? Possibly some of us still do. The thought of the song assuredly needs to be emphasized anew.

The "times are out of joint." Millions of men and women are meeting new problems and temptations. The standards of life they learned in home and church or Sunday school are not too easy to maintain.

Many are hearing that old excuse for laxity. "Man, you're in the army now," or "Don't forget you're not at home with Mother; you're in the navy." Civilians have similar tempting excuses for careless living, drinking, etc.

Our lesson is a timely one. It presents Daniel as having—

I. A Courageous Purpose (v. 8).

Daniel and his three Hebrew companions were among those carried captive to Babylon. As promising young men, they were selected to receive an education in the wisdom of the land, at the king's expense and in preparation for his service. The king provided for them the delicacies of his household, thinking thus to keep them strong and in good health. Daniel recognized that many of these things were unclean according to the laws of his people. He also knew that to eat such food and to drink the intoxicants provided for them would be to injure his health and cut down his ability to learn.

It was no easy thing to ask to be excused from what the king had commanded, not to do what everybody else was doing; but Daniel had a courageous purpose "in his heart."

But Daniel had the wisdom to be tactful about his convictions. He went to the king's steward with—

II. A Considered Plan (vv. 9-13).

He had something thoughtfully worked out, a fair proposal which would not endanger the life or standing of the prince who was over them. He proposed a test, and agreed, if it failed, to be subject to further orders. He knew it would not fail.

How often those who have it in their heart to stand true to God against evils, such as beverage alcohol, have no plan in mind, and are only loud and tactless in their condemnation. They make no contribution to the cause. Let us be intelligent and properly prepared. Daniel's plan put a planned diet and water over against rich foods and wine. It was a case of simple living against "high" living, and the result was a foregone conclusion. Those high in positions of authority in the field of diet tell us again and again that we need simple, well-balanced meals. And science is definite and clear in its condemnation of alcoholic beverages.

Daniel's test period resulted in—

III. A Convincing Proof (vv. 14-16).

Ten days proved the point. Daniel and his friends were fairer and fatter than the others. They were vindicated in their courageous stand for what they believed to be right. Simple living demonstrated its value. Think what a fine testimony the experience of Daniel must have been in that great group of young princes who were at the king's table. So we also may give good witness for our Lord by our loyalty to right standards. Often it is true that those who outwardly scoff at them are secretly moved to respect those who consistently stand for what they believe.

We need to cultivate in our young people the high courage which will enable them to stand against the constant temptation to partake of alcoholic beverages and to face with intelligent courage the clever propaganda of the liquor sellers.

Note that Daniel and his friends did not lose by their decision—they gained. They reached—

IV. A Commendable Position (vv. 19, 20).

At the end of the training period the king gave these young men examinations. Note that in technical knowledge, "I.Q." and in personal characteristics, Daniel and his comrades were superior to all the rest. That is in accord with the findings of modern science in the matter of the use of liquor.

Is it not almost unbelievable then that the advertising of the liquor interests, suggesting that liquor is a desirable thing from a personal, social, and business viewpoint, is permitted? The facts are all on the other side.

Strange too is the tolerant attitude of our nation and especially of many in the church toward that which is known to be destructive and detrimental. It is an appalling commentary on the extent to which our standards have been lowered or forgotten.

Lemon juice may be mixed with cream cheese that is used as a stuffing for green peppers.

Never throw away bones left from a roast or shoulder. Put them in cold water, and if cooked several hours, a very good soup may be obtained with the addition of diced vegetables.

If iodine-stained linen is soaked in a solution of ammonia and water, a teaspoon of ammonia to a pint of water, the stain quickly will disappear.

Always remove the ice from trays when defrosting a mechanical refrigerator. Wash the trays in plenty of warm water and soap-suds. Scald, cool and refill with water to freeze. You will then have clear, tasteless ice cubes.

Never leave medicine or any kind of drink uncovered in a sick-room.

Apple butter spread on freshly made ginger cookies or gingerbread combines two favorites. Try it for a hurry-up luncheon or supper dessert.

One and a half cups of dark brown sugar are equivalent to a cupful of granulated sugar.

It is easier to shorten a sleeve from the top than the bottom. This eliminates making a new pattern and taking off and putting on cuffs.

To restore faded upholstery beat the dust out, then brush. Apply a strong lather of castile soap with a hard brush, wash off with clear water, then wash off with alum water. On becoming dry, the colors will look as well as ever.

Sermon: "Self-made or God-made." We admire the beautiful lives of the Saints of old and the saints in our midst today. We yearn for a life which is free from needless worry, from fruitless anxiety, and lonely grief. We wish we could be like those we see who are so free, so blithe and confident, so reliant on a simple devotion to God, that their lives are a song without end, a joy to all around them. What is their secret? Can we share this triumphant, dedicated living?

Who Will Be President?

With the approach of the Republican National Convention on June 26 and of the Democratic conclave three weeks later, armchair politicians are commencing to "dope" the relative strength of the probable nominees of each party in No. number. As events take place such estimates become more complex and are subject to frequent revisions. To me, it now looks as if, for the first time in my remembrance, the public may not be assured of the identity of its next President, on the day the following the election and possibly for many weeks thereafter. This may seem a startling statement but, in my opinion, is well within the realm of possibilities. At present writing it seems as if Dewey and Roosevelt are the probable nominees and if it were to be a straight-out contest between these candidates, the task of those who take pleasure in indulging in estimates, would be quite simple even though their "dope" on each State that the respective candidates may carry will be in many instances erroneous. Let me give you an extreme though not impossible, (or even improbable) picture. In November the people will elect not the President, but 531 presidential electors. If 266 of these electors who are pledged to one or the other of these candidates are elected we will know the result the next morning. BUT, at the present time there is an anomalous situation existing. Certain of the Southern States, traditionally Democratic, are opposed to the re-election of President Roosevelt. Texas, Mississippi, and South Carolina have taken steps to pave the way for the electors of those States to vote for some other candidate regardless of the action of the Democratic Convention, if it re-nominates Roosevelt. These States have an aggregate of 40 electoral votes. It is said that at least three additional Southern States may act similarly and that a minimum of 73 electoral votes from the South will be cast on the day the electors meet, Dec. 18, 1944, for either Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia or Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas. If the Republicans do not, in November, elect 266 electors pledged to their candidate, it is quite probable (with the South "seceding" to the extent of 73 votes) that President Roosevelt could muster the required number of votes from the Northern and Western States to obtain a majority. Then, of course, the New House of Representatives meeting in January 1945, would under the Constitution, proceed to elect the President. The vote would be determined by the majority of the representatives of the respective States. States with an equal number of Representatives of each party would, of course, be deadlocked, and unable to cast a vote. It will require 25 votes to elect a President. Of course, no one knows the make up of the next House of Representatives. If the same political complexion prevails in that House as in the present one (which is improbable) the Republican candidate would receive 22 votes and the Democratic candidate (with the Southern Representatives supporting him) would receive a maximum of 21 votes. Five States, namely, Idaho, New York, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin, would be unable to cast their vote owing to no political party having a majority of the delegation. If such a condition should prevail and the House would be unable to elect a President by January 20, 1945, then whoever the Senate may be able to elect a Vice President, would, on that day, be Acting President until a President is chosen. If, on the other hand, the Senate is unable to elect a Vice President—well, that is a headache that Congress will have to suffer and it can be cured only by legislation.

Carl M. Bormet, Cook Co., AAA Chrm. Urges Early red clover Harvest

Carl M. Bormet, Cook County AAA Chairman, advises farmers to harvest red clover hay as soon as possible. This is one of the first steps to be taken to secure a seed crop.

Experience has shown that cutting clover early greatly increases the chances for a seed crop. There is a shortage of red clover seed and every acre harvested will not only help relieve this situation but will also bring a good cash return to the farmer.

The County AAA Chairman pointed out that $3.50 per acre up to 25 acres may be earned as a production practice payment for harvesting hay seed.

"The American hen deserves recognition for her fine production job," Carl M. Bormet, Cook County AAA chairman said today, "and the very best way we can show our appreciation is by not letting any of her gallant efforts go to waste."

The War Food Administration is faced with a difficult job taking care of what is a temporary overabundance of eggs. Storage facilities are already filled with supplies that will be needed in the future when production falls off.

"Citizens can definitely help out the situation," Mr. Bormet said, "If every home refrigerator will take care of an extra dozen eggs, and if housewives will serve egg dishes more frequently, we can use up the extra supply."

Mr. Bormet emphasized the fact that the surplus is only temporary. If we can use it up, he explained, and thus save other foods, we're doing the wisest possible thing to assure our fighting men and ourselves of a future food supply.

Changes In Rent Regulations

Three changes in federal rent regulations for housing designed to liberalize existing provisions relating to the eviction of tenants for occupancy by purchasers, were announced this week by John J. Vander Aa, manager of the Harvey Branch office covering Southern Cook County, who has offices in the Post Office, Harvey, Illinois.

The changes, which become effective at once, follows:

1. The provision requiring 20 percent down payment on a house purchased by a buyer who wants to occupy it, has been eased so that the purchaser may use borrowed money under certain conditions for part of his deposit.
2. Area rent directors no longer are required to grant eviction certificates with the choice of either no waiting period or a three month waiting period. They may now, at their discretion, grant evictions certifications with waiting periods for less than 3 months.
3. The three month waiting period after issuance of an eviction certificate by the rent director now will start from the day the petition for the certificate is filed by the owner with the rent director. Previously the waiting period began with the issuance of the certificate.

3 Day Conference For Educators

A three-day conference for school administrators, teachers, school board members and parents, devoted to the theme, "Education Looks to the Future," will be held at Northwestern University beginning July 5, under the auspices of the School of Education.

Speakers at the general sessions of the conference will include Herold C. Hunt, Supt. of Schools, Kansas City, Mo.; "The Outlook for Education"; T. R. McConnell, dean of the College of Science, Literature and the Arts, University of Minnesota; "General Education in the Postwar Period"; Kenneth W. Colegrove, professor of political science, Northwestern University; "The War, Politics, and Education"; R. W. Ballard, Supt. of Hull House, Chicago; "Youth and the Problem of Delinquency"; and Franklin D. Scott, professor of history, Northwestern University; "Highlights in the World Conflict."

Group discussions will be devoted to such subjects as visual education, selection and tenure of teachers, education of returning veterans, physical education programs, mental hygiene and curriculum revision.

One of the features of the conference, which will be attended by approximately 200 educators, will be an educational exhibit by publishing houses and school supply houses.

Why a Farmer Should Buy and Keep War Bonds

by G. W. Hedlund

Head, Dept. of Agricultural Economics
University of Pennsylvania

THERE are many compelling reasons why farmers should buy War Bonds. But there is one reason, often overlooked during times like the present, which I believe is fundamental to the individual farmer. That reason is: Farmers should buy War Bonds now to protect their personal financial position against falling prices at some future time.

The typical farmer has most if not all of his funds invested in his farming business. In other words, he has investments in real estate, livestock, equipment and other items that go to make up the usual farm business. Relatively few farmers have sizable investments outside of the farm. Farm investments are excellent hedges against inflation. By that I mean that when prices in general rise, usually the prices of farms, livestock and equipment also rise to some extent, so that the purchasing power of the investment changes but little. Therefore investments in farms retain their purchasing power better than investments in fixed dollar securities in times of rising prices. It is for this reason that many non-farmers have been purchasing farms during recent years. By so doing they are attempting to buy something whose price will increase as prices in general go up.

But investments in farm real estate and other farm property do not offer protection or hedges against price declines. When prices of farm products decline, the prices of farm land and other farm property also decline. To make matters worse, net farm income declines more than almost anything else. Farmers must look elsewhere to protect themselves against deflation or price declines.

A relatively small share of a typical farmer's investments is in bonds, mortgages or other fixed dollar investments. Presumably such securities maintain their dollar value regardless of the trend in prices of other things. Therefore, good bonds offer protection or a hedge against deflation or price declines.

The fact that most farmers are well hedged against inflation but are rather poorly hedged against deflation is one very sound reason why farmers should purchase War Bonds at this time. By purchasing Bonds they will partially hedge their finances against decreases in prices. They are already hedged against price increases. By being hedged on both sides, individual farmers will be in the safest position to weather the future, regardless of the trend in prices.

SUMMER-TIMELY TIPS

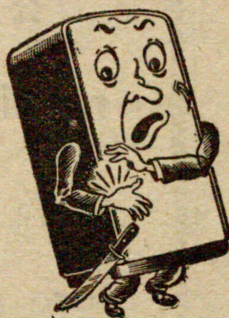

Give your refrigerator that scrubbed look

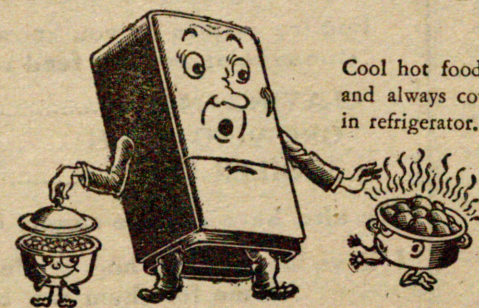

Open refrigerator only when necessary, and no longer than you must. Be sure air can circulate all around it. Leave air space between the refrigerator and the wall.

Wash your refrigerator outside with soap and lukewarm water. Wash the inside and rubber doorstrip with baking soda and tepid water. Dry and talcum strip, so it doesn't stick. Clean the coils, because that's where odors collect.

Don't chip frost off with sharp instrument. Just turn regulator to "defrost." Empty drip pan promptly, clean ice tray, clean and dry ice tray shelf... and then turn regulator up again.

Cool hot foods to room temperature, and always cover, before placing them in refrigerator.

Miss Wilma Handorf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Handorf, became the bride of George Yapp, C. M. 3-c, U. S. Navy, son of Mrs. Helen Yapp of New Lenox on June 6th at Seattle, Wash. The ceremony took place at there o'clock in the Magnolia Lutheran church. Chaplain Robert Murphy of the U. S. Naval Station officiated.

The bride was attractive in a pretty turquoise blue linen dress trimmed with white lace. Her corsage was a beautiful white orchid. Miss Ethel Handorf served her sister as maid of honor. She wore a yellow linen dress trimmed with white lace, similar to the one worn by the bride. Her corsage was of roses and sweet peas.

Robert Watson, C.M. 3-c, U. S. Navy, friend of the groom, was best man. Following the ceremony, a dinner was served at the New Washington hotel for the members of the bridal party.

The Woman's Club met last Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. A. J. Cleveland with Mrs. Madge Storm and Mrs. Mary Marshall assisting. The club was honored in having the County President, Mrs. Willard present. Several other guests were also present. Mrs. Merwin Moore presided over the meeting which opened with the pledge to the flag, led by Mrs. G. W. Bush. Letters were read from Thomas Stout and Charles Dale, who are both overseas. Mrs. Minnie Blodgett program chairman, presented an interesting program. Mrs. Paul Saunders read a part from, "The Vision of Sir Launfal". "Local Spots of Interest and Beauty", was given by Mrs. Loren Sass, Mrs. E. W. Bush, of Joliet, gave an excellent review of the book, "The Robe", by Lloyd Douglas. A game was enjoyed and the prize was awarded to Mrs. J. Casson. Refreshments were served by the hostesses. There will be no regular meetings in July and August.

Miss Lois Sproat entertained in her home last Thursday evening at a linen shower in honor of Miss Audrey Nelson of Lemont, bride to be. The evening was spent informally and the guests hemmed linen towels for Miss Nelson. A 2 course buffet supper was served. Decorations were in yellow and white. The honored guest received many lovely gifts. Miss Sproat was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Alfred Sproat. Guests were: Mrs. Howard Phelps and daughter Mary, Mrs. Fred Roth and daughter Jean and Mrs. John Cryder of Plainfield; Mrs. Nelson and daughter Janet of Joliet; Mrs. Edw. Grandgeorge of Seneca, Ill.; Mrs. Mumford of Wedron, Ill.; and Mrs. Ed. Petrie of Lemont.

Mrs. Glenn Peterson is spending this weekend in Springfield, Ill., where she is attending a meeting of the Auxiliary of the VFW.

A-S Robert Sproat of Bryan, Texas, is spending a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sproat.

Mrs. John Mosberg and Mrs. Chas. Dale were Chicago visitors Monday.

Plans are being made by the Brotherhood for the annual 4th of July picnic to be held in Storm's Grove. Watch for details to be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. LaForge of Platville were guests Sunday afternoon of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Peterson.

Mrs. Mary Marshall is spending a few days this week in the Martin Battenhouse home in Lemont.

Mrs. Madge Storm is spending a few weeks with relatives in Plainwell, Mich.

Mrs. John Brock spent Saturday in Chicago.

Miss Laura Willey of Tinley Park was a guest Friday of Mrs. Wm. Morrison.

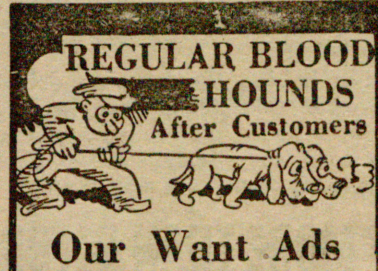

Mrs. Mary Thompson of Bismark, N. D. is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Dale.

Mr. James Frazer and Mrs. Wilbur Francis attended the funeral of Mr. Frazer's aunt, Mrs. Nora Garrison in Evanston Saturday.

Miss Mary Gorham had her tonsils removed last Tuesday in Silver Cross hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bruer of Joliet spent Monday in the Julian Gorham home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Haley and daughter Barbara of Goodings Grove were entertained Sunday in the Julian Gorham home.

MY HEART IS OVER THERE

That's why my HANDS are busy here!

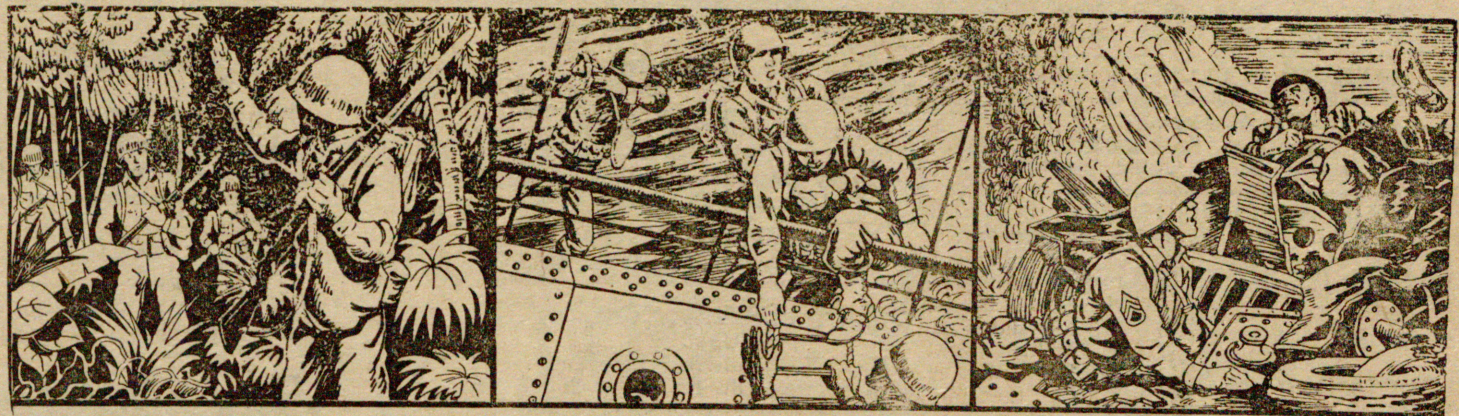

MILLIONS of American women are applying their hands over here, answering Uncle Sam's call to help with our national food crisis. With 20 million Victory Gardens and five billion jars of home-canned foods, they conserved our resources of fighting foods in 1943.

In 1944 you are being asked to raise and preserve 20 percent more, to assure every fighting Yank and his brother—as well as the home front—with needed nourishment.

For success, can with care, following proper instructions,* and use BALL JARS. They have been the housewife's preference for more than 60 years. Leaders always!

Mrs. Donald Dunn entertained 20 guests at a miscellaneous shower in the McCulloch Tea room at Joliet, Monday night in honor of Mrs. Jos. Vancil, Jr. the former Isabel Anderson. Refreshments were served at 8 o'clock at a long table decorated with blue and gold, centered with a bouquet of roses. Crash bunco and cootie were played and prizes awarded. Duplicate prizes were presented to the bride. Mrs. Vancil received many beautiful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Rasmussen and children left Saturday to visit with relatives and friends in Leland. Mr. Rasmussen is enjoying a weeks vacation from his duties as guard at Stateville.

During the severe electrical storm Monday afternoon, Mr. Carl Anderson had a cow struck by lightning.

Sunday afternoon the family of Mr. and Mrs. George Welter enjoyed a family reunion which also celebrated three events, the second birthday of their grandson, Ronald Ziesemer, son of Pfc. and Mrs. Robert Ziesemer; the fact that Pfc. Ziesemer is enjoying a ten day furlough from Camp in Texas and also Father's day. Robert will leave again Tuesday. A large birthday cake and ice cream were served. Ronald received many lovely gifts.

Mrs. Lee Burnett has been on the sick list. Pvt. George Kindness, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kindness of Harrisburg, Pa., formerly of Homer, who was reported missing in action on February 18 is alive and well in a prison camp in Germany according to a letter dated March 25. Mr. and Mrs. Kindness have five sons serving in the armed forces. Mrs. Kindness was the former Miss Hattie Moore, sister of Mrs. Geo. White.

The Woman's club met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Jennie Ott with Mrs. Mary Konow as co-hostess. Plans were discussed for the picnic to be held in July in the home of Katherine and Eleanor Wies. Election was held and the nominating committee, Miss Ida Harrington and Mrs. Ott presented the names of Mrs. Lina Burnett for vice president and Mrs. Grace Kopelman for treasurer. These candidates were unanimously elected.

Mrs. Mamie Paddock was in charge of the program, which was as follows: Salute to the flag; gro unsinging; reports of committees; "Local Spots of Beauty and interest", by Maude Myers; "Surgery Enters the Ice Age", by Evelyn DePra; "Post War Planning", by Grace Kopelman. A game, followed by refreshments completed a pleasant afternoon.

Rev. Harold Finley will be ordained Sunday evening in the Homer Congregational church, where he has been pastor for the past year. The public is invited to attend the service at 8 o'clock June 25.

A group of friends helped Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hiller celebrate their wedding anniversary Wednesday night. A social hour and refreshments were enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Ingersoll enjoyed dinner on Father's Day in the home of their son, Ben Jr., and family in Lockport.

The monthly community party will be held Friday night June 30 in the town hall. Cards and bunco will be played and prizes awarded. A picnic lunch will be enjoyed.

Mrs. Francis Bridges and Mrs. Ruth McGuire will be hostesses to the Missionary Society in the church parlors Thursday June 29.

MOKENA

Lester Stermer, aged 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo Stermer and who was graduated from the Joliet Twp. high school last week following which he enlisted in the U. S. Army, has received word that he passed the Army and Navy tests with high percentages and is to leave July 5th to enter Rippon College at Rippon, Wis. This is a six months course in the Army Selective Training Program. Lester was the only one from the Joliet Unit out-going in July which made this rating.

Miss Hyacinth Rinke, U. S. Cadet nurse is enjoying a 21 day leave from her duties at St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet and is now visiting relatives in Colorado.

Word comes from Milbrae, Cal., that Miss Virginia Nebeker, former Mokena resident, and who was graduated from the San Mateo, Cal., high school June 16, was awarded at the graduating exercises, the Citizenship Award which was a silver cup. This award is given on points of: character, school activities, scholarship, leadership and physical development.

Mrs. Beryl Needham left Thursday evening for Milbrae, Cal., to stay with her sister, Mrs. Stokes Nebeker and family. Jimmy and Dick Needham left on the same train and time for their grandparents' home in Kansas where they will spend the summer.

Margaret Jean Stermer is ill in her home with tonsillitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Walters and daughter have moved to the Fred Wannemacher farm home on Maple street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Gerrard of Chicago who recently purchased the farm south of Mokena formerly occupied by the Cook family, are moving into their new home this week end.

Miss Lydia Baudry and Miss Adeline Sommler are leaving today by bus for a trip to New York City. They plan to be gone a week.

Capt. and Mrs. Robert A. Lenhardt spent last week end with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shevlin and other Mokena relatives. Last Sunday a family gathering and dinner was held in the Shevlin home in their honor. Capt. Lenhardt has just returned from Guadalcanal and other southern Pacific war area where he has been for three years. He is now on an enroute leave and reports at Durham, N. C., July 9th. He is the son of the late Fred Lenhardt of Iowa, sister of Mrs. Philip Hacker Sr. A lovely time was enjoyed.

Miss Jean Shevlin, Marjorie and Corrine Marti and Violet Hurley are employed at the American Steel Co. office in Chicago.

Mr. Quale Mumford, son of Rev. and Mrs. Manly Mumford and who has been employed at the Kaiser Shipyards at Vancouver, Wash., for the past year, has joined the staff of the San Diego, Cal., Union as a general assignment reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardnes of Milwaukee, Wis., and Mrs. Mina Goodman of Forest Park were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hensel, Sunday.

Mrs. Clifford McKim and daughter of Chicago were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Marti and family.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hensel were pleasantly surprised last Sunday when two old time friends of Chicago, Dr. Oake and Mr. Alvin Baumgartner called at their home. The day was spent in reminiscence of old time friends and occasions. Many people of this territory will remember Mr. Baumgartner, as his father, Frank Baumgartner, was a well known dairyman for many years in this section.

Mrs. A. R. Mangus and daughter of Columbus, Ohio, were guests in the Elmer Cooper home last Friday and Saturday. Mr. Mangus will be remembered in Mokena as pastor of the Methodist church a number of years ago. He is now a professor in the Columbus University at Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Neithammer entertained at dinner in their home Wednesday evening in honor of F. I. C. Dave McMillan who is spending a 30 day furlough here. Other guests were: Mrs. McMillan and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cooper and daughters. Mr. McMillan reports at St. Louis, June 27th.

Miss Estella Lowe of Donovan, Ill., and Miss Erna Lowe of Emmington, Ill., are spending a few days with Ruth Lowe.

IN MEMORIAM

Four years ago, June 24, 1940 our dear Husband and Daddy passed away.

Often we pause and think of you, And think of how you died, To think you could not say good bye Before you closed your eyes.

No one knows the silent heartaches Only those who have loved can tell Of the grief that is born in silence. For our dear Daddy we loved so well MRS. ELSIE YUNKER and SONS MARTIN, VAN EARL and S 2-c EUGENE J.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Estand entertained Sunday for their son Bob who is entering the U.S.N.R. They had as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Jennings and sons, Miss Leona Henning, and Chas. Kruspe of Chicago, Mrs. Earl Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kruspe and son Frank Lin, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Yunker and son Norman of Orland Park, the Misses Gertrude and Erna Henning of Palos Park and Mr. and Mrs. Christ Kruspe of New Lenox. Mrs. Nettie of Chicago's North Shore is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker of Orland Park.

Mrs. Olin Ellwood, who has been suffering with an asthmatic condition for some time, became seriously ill and was taken to the Bethany hospital in Elmhurst, Saturday, June 17. Her many friends and neighbors wish her a speedy recovery.

Jack McAleer, S 2-c (RM) has a slight change in address; Camp Maintenance Unit, Camp 4, USNATB, Ft. Pierce, Fla.

A very interesting Home Bureau meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Robt. Uthe June 6 at 9 o'clock. After a short business meeting we joined with the President of the United States in a prayer for our boys fighting on the Day of Invasion. Our chairman Mrs. Henry Felsch, gave the Major lesson on The Foot, It's Care and Abuse. Very interesting discussions followed.

Our Cook County Home Advisor, Mrs. Cornelius, will give both the Major and minor lessons July 7 at the home of Mrs. Harry Pihl at 8 pm. Guests and visitors are cordially invited. Further particulars will be furnished in next week's issue.

The Orland Girls 4H club had their meeting at Shirley Nelson's home. The president opened the meeting with the 4H pledge. The Roll call was answered by How Can I Help on the Farm. Mrs. Ihlenfeld told us that we could start our 4H garments any time so they would be finished by the show. Shirley Nelson gave a talk on Vitamins. Mrs. Ihlenfeld told what food should be eaten to be in good health. Betty Schuld gave a reading on Aid to Home Sewing. LaVerne Keuch gave a talk on Reclaiming the Family Wardrobe. The meeting was adjourned and a fine lunch was served by Mrs. Bettenhausen, Shirley's sister.

Mrs. H. Kruspe, Chairman

May 21, 1944

Dear Mrs. Kruspe and Ladies Aux.

Well you did it again. You sent a gift box of candy that just hit the spot. It arrived in fine shape and to show how much a good box of candy is appreciated here in Florida, the Col. in charge asked for a second piece. That is most unusual.

Army life and life in general has been pretty much the same since we moved into our new camp just about a year ago. At the present time I am breaking in two WAC's that will be used to replace some of my men. This army is really somewhat different. Everywhere I look here in the office, there is nothing but women. They all are doing a grand job. At the present time we have the largest company of them in the country.

Suppose you folks wonder what we do or should I say, I do, in my spare time, most of it is spent on the tennis court. While the Sunday I am off can find me trying to hit one of those defenseless golf balls on one of Orlando's sporty golf courses. Once in a while I try and get in a little roller skating. (It was just a year ago that I was laid up with a broken leg from roller skating.)

I have a few more things to do at the office before I call it a day. So will say ladies it was most thoughtful of you all to think of me in such a sweet way.

Success and best wishes to the Auxiliary. Merrill Cooper P. S. See by last weeks Orland Herald that there is a Poppy Day in the near future. Will you please give the enclosed check for one dollar to poppy fund. (Many thanks, for check Merrill.)

May 26, 1944

Harlingen, Texas

Dear Mrs. Kruspe: I got the box of candy and I want to thank you very much for it. I vied with the guys and the Sarge for it. I came out very victorious. I got two pieces instead of one. We all really appreciated it. The guys from Chicago and vicinity sure let up a holler when they saw where it was from. That started them off on a talk of old times which led far on into the night and kept me awake.

School is getting more interesting each day. We have the tops in instructions and the Air Force really does its very best by us in training. Thank you again for the candy.

Yours, Bill Maddox

4-H CLUB NEWS

The June meeting of the Orland Boys 4-H Club was held June 20 in the home of Norman and Warren Keuch. A discussion was had on the member's projects. A project talk was given by Richard Pine and Lambs, and Richard Martie gave a talk on "My First Three Years in 4-H Club."

A Weiner roast was held after the meeting and games were also played.

Tinley Servicemen's Letters

April 27

Dear Friends:

Thank you so very much for the package of eats, you people certainly have a big job on your hands trying to keep up with the long list of people in service. My congratulations on the swell job you are doing. I am feeling fine and we are all hoping that it won't be too long now and I will be able to come back and stay. There's no place like Tinley Park. I received your package last week. It was sent to Carlsbad, N. M. where I left March 20 and came home for ten days, leaving April 1 for Lincoln Neb. The package was forwarded there but I was there only one week so it followed me here. Those ten days I was home I couldn't visit everyone but I saw quite a few. I was out in Tinley a few days for a visit with my parents but the rest of the time I spent with my wife and she is living with her parents. I expect to be here about six months so my wife accompanied me back here and will stay here awhile. I stopped in the Tinley Times office to change my address so I expect to be getting it now soon.

Sincerely yours, Melvin Harcourt

Dear Friends:

Just a few lines to let you know I received the lovely Easter package and want to thank each and everyone of you for your kind work and thoughtfulness. I know I will enjoy every bit of the contents. In fact I just made a cup of chocolate and was it ever delicious. You can imagine it didn't last long as all the boys are crazy about chocolate.

The weather is getting plenty warm now, we are all beginning to get a good tan. We are working hard to end all this soon so we can be back again with all those we left behind. Will have to close for now.

Thanks again for the gift.

Sincerely,

Pfc. David Zeilstra

April 27, 1944

Dear Mrs. Moss:

Hello and how is everybody in Tinley? As for me and my little one ton truck we're doing fine. I am working for a boss that is a Marine and in Service 26 years. His name is Master Gunner Sgt. Mickey T. Finn. Mickey is a fine boss and best on Quantico Base. I enjoy my work now that everything is green and nice and warm here. I work for Post Forestry which consists of men working for Mickey. They take care of officers gardens, lawns, trees, flowers etc.

The men that work for him are civilians. It was tough shoveling in the winter time with all ice and snow and trying to stay on the road. The girls here really work hard and have to be careful, they drive everything from Trash trucks and dump trucks and everything in our Motor division.

Well I suppose by now you have heard the good news about what happened. Yes, I got married April 11 to a Marine from Phil. Pa. So now its Ruth Klara. He is a Sgt. that's been in service close to 8 years. All in all we're happy.

Well I guess that's all the news so I'll close and hope you all write. As always, Ruth Celtham Klara

ARGUMENTS and debates or sports reach fever heat in so many army camps, here and abroad, that one regrets there are only 24 hours in a day and the type writer carries only so many words. Here are a few of the answers to a swarm of questions:

1—In our opinion, the best fighter we ever saw, pound for pound, was the late Harry Greb, the Little Hercules, who as a middleweight, in his prime beat such high-class heavyweights as Gene Tunney, Tom Gibbons, Jack Dillon and on the side annoyed Jack Dempsey beyond measure in two sparring partner stands.

2—We still have no idea how Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis would have concluded their program, had they met when each was at his peak—the Dempsey who wrecked Willard and the Louis who wrecked Schmeling. In any event the action would have been terrific. Louis was the better boxer and the better two-handed puncher. Dempsey was the faster, the more aggressive and the harder to hurt.

3—Most of the pro golfers rate Byron Nelson as the best golfer who has come along in the last ten years—considering shot-making ability with every club and tournament temperament. Nelson is the golfer they always have to beat. Close rivals—Sammy Snead, Craig Wood, Ben Hogan and Jug McSpaden.

4—This is a tough one. The Cardinals should win the National League pennant under wraps. The American League is tougher, with the Yankees favored if the draft breaks are about even. Washington's Senators can supply their full share of trouble. The A. L. should offer a much closer scramble through the summer campaign.

WADING IN DEEP WATER.

5—This is an even tougher problem from the marine base at Parris Island. College and pro football will depend largely on the progress of the war this spring and summer. I know the navy is more than keen to keep football going. But those colleges under army control will have a rough time keeping football alive. Navy Secretary Forrestal is a strong believer in competitive play, just as Secretary Knox was. The odd part is that Princeton, playing out her schedule last year, is through for this season. But other colleges who dropped out in 1943 will be back in 1944.

6—Rating the five greatest home-run hitters isn't so complicated. After Ruth you have Jimmy Foxx, Lou Gehrig, Mel Ott and Hank Greenberg.

Don't forget that Home Run Baker of the Athletics led his league four years in succession with a total of 39 home runs. The quality of the ball they hit has made a killing difference. Ten home runs a season in Home Run Baker's day was something to cheer about.

7—A query from Ft. Monmouth—The Cardinals are a kick-in for the National League pennant unless they keep losing men in the draft. If a few more like Musial and Litzler are called, that whittles them down to closer competition. But even in that case, they have the best reserves left. Max Lanier and Mort Cooper alone can come close to winning a pennant with only a fair amount of outside help.

8—South Pacific—From all appearances the navy team will be football's 1944 standout. Judging from present prospects, navy has a squad even better than its 1943 array, which lost only to Notre Dame. And there will be no 1943 Notre Dame team against the coming autumn skyline. Army will be good, but hardly up to navy class with the stars that are expected to shine along the Severn. It would not be surprising to see navy the best team in the country, college or pro. Outside of navy and army, one guess is just as good as another.

9—North Africa—There have been more great first basemen and second basemen than there have been star shortstops and third basemen. I couldn't tell you why. But there has been no list on the left side of the diamond to compare with Sisler, Gehrig, Chase, Terry, Hornsby, Collins, Frisch, Lajoie, Gehring, Evers, Gordon and a few more. The number of great shortstops and great third basemen has been on the limited side.

GREATEST SHORTSTOP

10—A sergeant asks, "Outside of Hans Wagner, who is the best shortstop the big leagues have ever known—especially in fielding."

Well, sergeant, we can take you back to Herman Long of the old Boston Nationals. We can move you along to Bancroft and Jackson of the Giants, to Joe Tinker of the Cubs, to Jack Barry of the Athletics, to Leo Durocher of the Yankees, Cincinnati Reds, Cardinals and Dodgers, to Marion of the Cardinals, to Crosetti of the Yankees.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

PAUL Derringer, veteran pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, is "Mr. Big," generally speaking, when it comes to wearing baseball equipment, but Mike Nymick of Cleveland and Johnny Gee of the Pirates put in "large orders" when preparing to dress for baseball activity.

Derringer, for example, wears a size 50 shirt and orders a 7% cap, which requirements make him just about the biggest all-around man on the diamond. Bobo Newsom, who has settled down with Connie Mack, also wears a size 50 shirt, while Thornton Lee of the White Sox dons a 7% cap, but Paul's head is bigger than Bobo's, and his chest measurement tops Lee's.

Nymick takes big honors in the shoe department, his dogs demanding a set of 15½ brogans, while Johnny Gee, who towers 6 feet 9 inches above the pitcher's mound, wears the longest uniform in the majors. Although his chest measurement is only 46, Johnny's shirttail is 12 inches longer than standard and his pants are 9 inches longer than the average player's requirements.

These facts, and others of a similar nature, are revealed by Jimmy Carrig, the "Goldsmith" man, who has been measuring major leaguers for the last 20 years and who can just about tell you how many times a given player can sneeze before the button pops off his collar.

Record for Skimmers

If you're interested in more measurements, Carrig can tell you that the late Jack Hendricks, once manager of the Cincinnati Reds, wore a size 8 skimmer, the largest cap ever worn by a major leaguer. The small cap department is headed by Lou Boudreau, Indians manager; Muddy Ruel, White Sox coach; and Ival Goodman, Cubs gardener, all of whom wear a 6% bonnet.

Myril Hoag, now with the White Sox, has amazingly small feet, wearing a size 4½ shoe of "D" width. Dom Dellasandro of the Cubs also pulls on a 4½ shoe, but he requires a triple "E" width for his almost round feet. Skeeter Webb and Muddy Ruel of the White Sox wear the smallest uniforms, size 40 shirts and size 34 pants. Carrig recalls that Pitcher Walter Brown, best remembered as a Yankee, wore a size 54 shirt, while Gob Buckeye, one-time Cleveland hurler, hitched up a pair of size 46 pants.

The best dressed player of all time, in Carrig's opinion, was Hazen "Kiki" Cuyler, former Pittsburgh and Chicago Cub outfielder, who now manages Atlanta in the Southern association. During his playing days, Cuyler, whose cap had to be just at the right angle, invented the pants roll which made for an ultra streamlined appearance and which of late has given way to the less trim plus-4 effect now sported by most players.

Pet Superstitions

Carrig reports, too, that there are many player superstitions concerning uniforms. Billy Jurgens of the Giants will wear any number but seven. Claude Passeau of the Cubs insists on number 13.

Many players, if they have a good day after inadvertently putting their sweat shirts on inside out, will wear the shirt inside out until a slump convinces them otherwise. The same applies, in many cases, when a player unconsciously puts on a sock inside out or rolls his pants in another manner. Carrig recalled that Lefty O'Doul would fight a roommate if the latter happened to appropriate a necktie Lefty wore to the park on a day when he got three hits.

"Mr. Big" among the bat swingers was Chief Meyers, once catcher for the Giants, who swung a 54-ounce club. Babe Ruth came up to the leagues wielding a 50-ounce stick, but worked down to a 38 before he retired. The Babe, however, swung a bat weighing around 43 ounces when he was setting slugging marks, but in his later years he chose a lighter club to meet the improvement in change-of-pace pitching.

Iodine Treatment

Bat superstitions are also rife in the majors. Babe Herman, former Brooklyn slugger, used to have one bat to hit to right field, another for blows down the middle and a third for hits to left. The Babe also treated his bats with iodine, which gave him the most sanitary clubs in the leagues.

Harry Hooper of the famed Red Sox outfield of Speaker, Lewis and Hooper, insisted that the same tape stay on the bat handle for the duration of the season.

The train clears its mechanical throat, rolls out of the depot, and the moving picture of passing scenery is framed in Pullman windows. . . . Fragments of smoke cruising over sprawling war plants that dot the outskirts of the city. A peaceful industrial scene where weapons are born that wind up in the hell of war. . . . Neat suburban homes on their best architectural behavior. . . . Church steeples pointing at the sky like hands in prayer. . . . Telephone poles whizzing by in Indian file. Birds perched on their wires—like notes on a musical scale. . . . The countryside knee-deep in Spring. A tapestry of greenery stretching toward the horizon. . . . Long lines of trees planted with Rockette precision—bejeweled with ripening fruits. . . . Attractive lady train conductors. . . . Weary travelers slumped in their seats marooned on an island of their thoughts.

Tree-lined small town streets, each house ornamented with manicured hedges. . . . Ribbons of roads wrapped around the landscape. They used to be covered with traffic, but now you can see miles of nude highways. . . . The eager anticipation in the orbs of servicemen on their way home to enjoy a furlough. . . . The train gobbling up miles of space as it roars through State lines. No passports are needed to cross them. One of the miracles too many Americans take for granted. . . . The haze that floats over the grass at sunrise when Nature is still drowsy with morning. . . . Old, unpainted houses on the wrong side of the tracks making their poverty public. . . . Miles of undeveloped land blanketed with forests between big cities. Places where Nature has room to stretch.

The train whizzing by small, dusty stations surrounded by loneliness. You go by so fast you can't even read the station's name. . . . Cows grazing in Ohio's pastures—their tails continually swinging like a baton. . . . A feather of a breeze tickling a lake—causing it to dimple with a million ripples. . . . Piercing train whistles punctuating the night with exclamation points of sound. . . . Cross country trucks moving across the roads with the slow dignity of glaciers. . . . The increased tempo of traffic that heralds the approach to a city.

A stretch of flat land broken by the wide open mouth of a valley. . . . The lights of a lonely farmhouse twinkling in the dark night. . . . The train pulling into a station with the dignity of a dowager entering a tea party. . . . The eternal peacefulness of forests filled with a million leafy fingers reaching for the warmth of the sun. . . . Fields of wildflowers curtsying to the balmy winds. . . . Large signs announcing that you're about to enter this-or-that town. A sight as American as a home run.

Tremendous ranches monopolizing giant slices of territory. Some are almost as large as a small European nation. . . . Skeletons of ghost towns slowly being turned into dust by wind and rain, remnants of the wild West. . . . Modern cowboys who now spend more time riding in station wagons than on horses. . . . The brilliance of a Western night—a dark-faced sky freckled with stars. Much poetry and many songs have been written in tribute to its overpowering beauty. But nothing can match the first-hand view of this shimmering phenomenon. . . . The many peaceful sights that make you think the war is very far away. But a plane drilling its way through the sky reminds you nothing is beyond the war's reach. . . . Peaceful Indians now selling souvenirs at railroad stations. . . . Cattle herds in the sunset making a picture postcard to be filed in your memory.

Desert nights filled with romantic mysteries. . . . When you see the gigantic natural obstacles that still exist in the West you are filled with renewed respect and pride for the pioneers who built a civilization on the foundation of blood, sweat and tears. . . . Tiny villages with less population than in a Big Town apartment house. . . . Headwaiter smiles of train porters. . . . The Deisel engine entering a tunnel with a loud cry, dragging the serpent of cars behind it. . . . The sage brush country, with an occasional motorist providing the only sign of life. . . . Tired tourists chewing the fingernails of their patience, eager to arrive at their destination. . . . Hot dog stands planted in the middle of nowhere.

The billboard advising motorists: "This is God's Country. Don't Drive Like Hell" . . . The Chicago skyline resembling an unfinished jigsaw puzzle. . . . Train-sitters trying to whittle away time by playing cards, gabbing, reading, or just staring at a pretty gal across the aisle. . . . The mid-West's gigantic fertile fields—America's breadbasket. . . . A bonfire of sunlight slowly raising its head over roundshouldered hills. . . . Traveling salesmen in club cars nibbling on bits of conversation about tiresome matters.

Summer Set
A COMPLETELY pretty play dress and matching bonnet which can be done in colorful seersuckers, striped chambrays or flowered cottons. For very small girls—aged one to three, this set is adorable when done in white polka-dotted muslin or pastel organdies and trimmed with fine white lace.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Alcohol base butadiene is expected to provide an important portion of the synthetic rubber used in the U. S. in 1944. One instance where alcohol and the automobile go well together!

Passenger car tire shortage is expected to continue well into the summer months, at which time synthetic tires may make their appearance in growing numbers. That's why extreme tire care is important now.

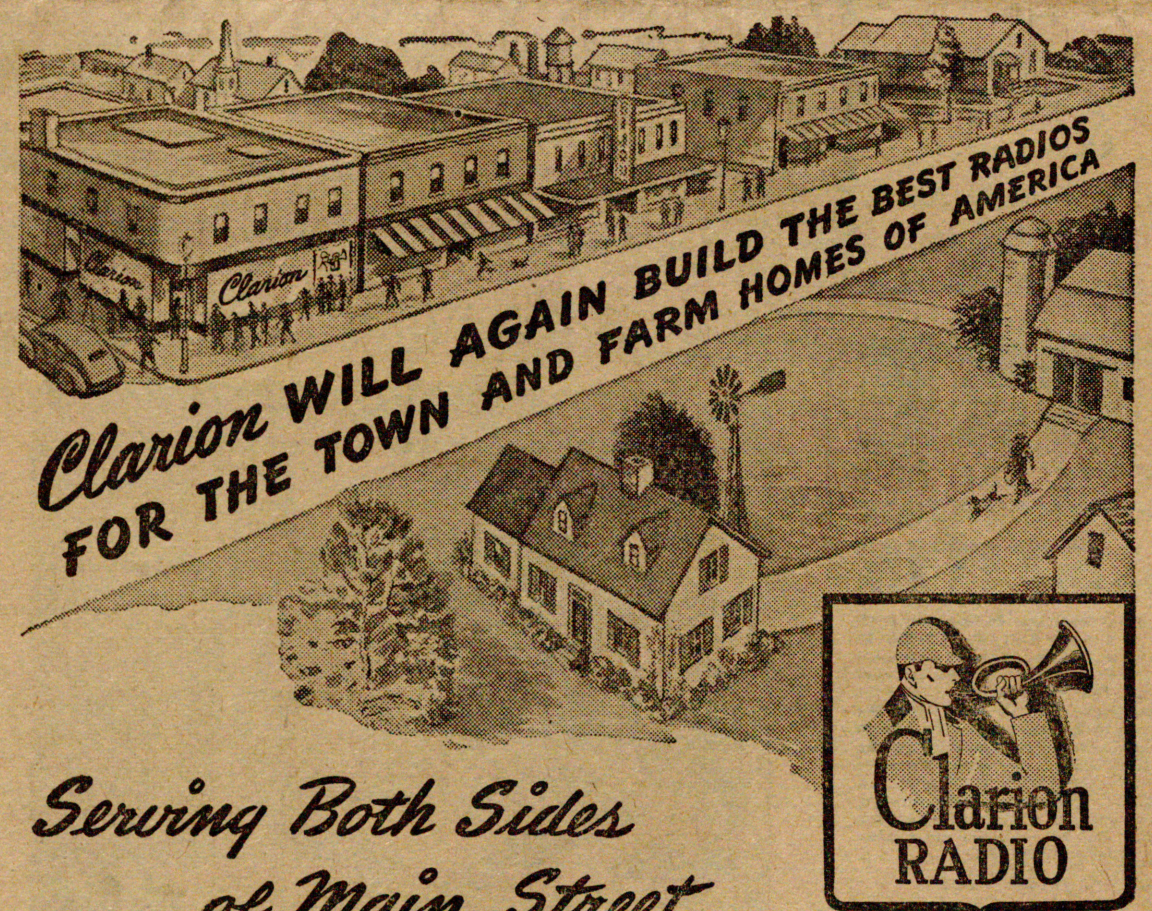

In 1910 crude rubber sold for an average of $2.06 a pound in New York. Since September 12, 1941, it has been fixed by a government agency at 22½ cents a pound. In 1932 the average price was 3.4 cents.

A HANDSOME pair of cushions to brighten up your living room may be made from things on hand or from remnants of silk. Frequently the largest pieces of the skirt of an old silk dress may be used for a pair of matching cushions. The backing may be made of sateen. A soft fold of a contrasting silk around the edge makes a smart finish. The sketch shows how such a fold is cut and applied.

Eighteen inches square is a good size for the cushions and, if you have an assortment of cushions of different sizes, it is easy to transfer the filling into ticks of the size you want. Stitch and turn, leaving a four-inch opening in one side. Rip a smaller opening in the old ticking; sew the large opening over the smaller one and then work the filling through.
